BOARD INFO 7

This year's Spring Conference Friday, May 2, 2008 drew attendees from Ohio and neighboring states. The conference was attended by career and academic advisors, counselors, students and others at the Aladdin Shrine Center in Columbus, Ohio. Dr. Ed Colozzi provided an energetic and educational presentation on DOVE (Depth-Oriented Values Extraction). Ed explained the principles of DOVE, and several specific interventions designed to move beyond objective assessment and enhance Career Decision Making Self-Efficacy. Dr. Edward Colozzi is also the Membership Chair for the National Career Development Association (NCDA).

The conference was well received and OCDA looks forward to planning next year's spring conference.

Attendees learned how to use DOVE techniques to translate psychological data into values-based terms that facilitate career life decision making.

Ed's lively presentation, combined with quality educational material, ensured a quality learning experience for those in attendance. We thank Ed for his willingness to share his knowledge. For more information on DOVE, please contact Dr. Ed Colozzi at ed-colozzi@verizon.net.

A special thank you goes out to the OCDA Executive Board for their help planning this year's spring conference.

PRESIDENT'S WELCOME

By Sarah Shilling

It is with great excitement that I enter into my term as President of the Ohio Career Development Association (OCDA). I have been a member of the board since 2004 serving as National Career Development Month Chair and President-Elect and have had the honor of working with a very dedicated executive board. This coming year is certainly no exception. I hope you will join me in welcoming new members and new executive board members. This board is poised for a year of reflection and planning.

As OCDA prepares to grow and adapt to the needs of the membership, we are charged with the question of how to best assess and meet those needs. Kevin Glavin, who will take on the role of OCDA

Past-President and Nominations Chair July 1, recognized that as our organization grows we need to become more strategic. In late June, Kevin Glavin, Cynthia Marco-Scanlon (president-elect), and myself, will meet to discuss goals for the organization. This meeting will then be followed up by a strategic planning meeting with the OCDA executive board in late July. The hope is that this adds to the solid foundation laid out by past-presidents and allows the organization to reflect, plan, and grow.

I am continually reminded of how important it is to reflect, but how little time I am often able to dedicate to reflection. OCDA has this opportunity now. As a member of OCDA please take sometime over the next few months to reflect on how this organization has met your needs in the past and how we might seek to adapt and expand and share them with me via email: shilling.29@osu.edu. I look forward to this coming year and hope that this summer allows you time to relax and reflect.

Sarah

PAST PRESIDENT'S NOTE

By Kevin Glavin

Dear OCDA members, as you may already be aware, my term as OCDA President ends July 1st. As that time approaches, I reflect upon this last year, whilst also looking forward to the future. I am pleased to say that we were able to offer two conferences, one in the fall 2007, and our most recent one in May 2008. The President usually details a specific goal that he or she attempts to complete during their year in office. However, when I began my term, I could not think of a goal that would make a significant difference. Rather than state a goal just for the sake of doing so, I waited, and I am glad I did. It wasn't until we prepared for the fall 2007 conference that I discovered what I felt was important for OCDA. I realized that we were likely to lose a number of board members over the next couple of years. These individuals have not only served OCDA well, but also have a long history with our organization. To lose these board members without having others ready to replace them would have put great strain on the remaining board members. Therefore, my goal was to begin recruiting current members to fill future positions on the OCDA board. I am glad to announce the election of five new board members, each of whom will bring unique skills to our organization. In all honesty, I never expected to get this many willing participants. I would have settled for two or three new faces, and I got five strong professionals. It pleases me to no end to see members willing to step and take responsibility for OCDA. You will help lead us for the next several years, and I look forward to seeing you grow OCDA.

As we look forward to the future, we realize how important it is to plan ahead. For this reason, the OCDA board decided to forego the fall 2008 conference in lieu of a strategic planning retreat. The purpose of this retreat is to define our goals and plans for the next several years. Despite a growing membership, we have noticed conference attendance has decreased. We feel it is important to address this trend before it becomes the norm, and when better to do so, with the introduction of five new board members. Undoubtedly, some of you will be disappointed to hear there will be no fall conference, but please be assured, we will be working diligently on your behalf to ensure the quality of future events. I would like to thank the board for their help and support over the last year, and wish the new board all the best for the future.

Sincerely,

Kevin Glavin

Past President
